The diagram illustrates a mechanical system. A vertical guide rail is shown on the left, with a hatched area at its base indicating a fixed support. A horizontal slider block, labeled 'A' in a red circle, moves along this rail. A vertical arm, labeled 'B' in a red circle, is pivoted at its top end to a fixed support. The arm is inclined at an angle and has a rounded end. A dashed line represents the path of the slider block, showing it moving horizontally. A curved arrow at the pivot point indicates the rotational motion of the arm. A vertical dotted line is drawn through the center of the slider block, representing its vertical position.
